Two Slain, 1 Shot As Poultry War Breaks Out Again

Abe Cohen, Max Livingston Bullet Riddled in East Side Hallway.

POLICE LACK CLUES

One Dead Man, a Brooklynite, Was Sought in Joe Cohen Killing.

A renewal of the sanguinary poultry war which already has cost several lives and has sent a dozen racketeers to prison, early today added two more murders to its total and sent another man to a hospital in serious condition.

The two slain men, one of them a Brooklynite wanted here as a murder suspect, were put on the spot in a hallway at 132 Stanton st., in Manhattan's lower East Side. All three victims were chicken pullers and members of the Kosher Butchers' Association.

The two were identified by police as Abe Cohen, 30, of 247 Rutter ave., and Max Livingston, 36, of 1207 Washington ave., the Bronx.

Their bodies, riddled with bullets, were found slumped in the hallway of the six-story apartment building by Gilbert Crump, superintendent, and his wife, Mabel.

The Crumps told police they were awakened shortly before 4 A. M. by the sound of gun shots.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan took personal charge of the investigation. A search of the building failed to reveal any clue to the murderers.

At the curb in front of the building police found a Chrysler sedan believed to have been owned by Livingston. In it was a membership card of the Kosher Butchers' Association.

Police say the dead Brooklynite was the Abe Cohen wanted by the Homicide Squad in connection with the fatal shooting of Joseph Cohen, Brooklyn poultry dealer, in 1932.

Nobody has been arrested for the murder of Joseph Cohen and nobody was executed for the slaying of Barney Baff.

Joseph Cohen, Frank Verrara, driver of the auto from which Baff was shot down, and Guiseppe Archiello, who was in the car, and said to have fired the shot, were all convicted and sentenced to die, but Archiello obtained a new trial and won a suspended sentence. Verrara was pardoned by former Governor Smith after he had been in the Sing Sing death house four years.

Cohen fought for his life through the Court of Appeals, was denied review by the United States Supreme Court and was adjudged sane by a commission appointed by former Governor Whitman.

He was convicted several times by Governor Whitman, once within seven minutes of being led to the electric chair. Finally, after important persons had interceded for him—among them former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri—Cohen's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Smith and later he was released.

Detectives investigating the murder of Livingston and Cohen today were attempting to link it with the shooting under similar circumstances of Irving Bernstein, 28, of 62 West 119th st., Manhattan, earlier in the night.

Bernstein was set upon by three men as he was entering

SCHECHTERS SENT TO JAIL AND FINED AS NRA VIOLATORS

Two Companies Also Assessed —Case Appealed—Sold Unfit Poultry.

Federal Judge Campbell today imposed sentence in the case of Joseph, Alex, Aaron and Martin Schechter, brothers, found guilty Nov. 1 of various counts alleging violation of the NRA poultry code.

Fines were also levied against the Schechter Live Poultry Market of 931 Rockaway ave., and the A. L. A. Schechter Poultry Corporation of 858 East 52d st., operated by the four brothers.

All four Schechters were found guilty of conspiracy to violate the NRA Code and of various specific counts alleging selling uninspected poultry, selling poultry unfit for human consumption, violating the straight killing provisions of the code, paying wages below the code scale, working employes more than the maximum hours and selling to persons having no permit to buy.

Joseph Schechter, found guilty of the conspiracy charge and also found guilty on three other counts, was sentenced to three months in the Federal Detention Prison, Manhattan, and fined $1,000.

Alex Schechter, found guilty of conspiracy and also on three counts, was sentenced to two months in the Detention Prison and fined $1,500.

Aaron Schechter, found guilty of conspiracy and also fifteen other counts, was sentenced to one month in the Detention Prison and fined $1,000.

Martin Schechter, found guilty of conspiracy and also sixteen counts, was sentenced to one month in the Detention Prison and fined $2,100.

The Schechter Live Poultry Market, found guilty on four counts, was fined $100.

The A. L. A. Schechter Poultry Corporation, found guilty on 17 counts, was fined $450.

Joseph Heller, defense attorney, filed notice of appeal, and Judge Campbell fixed bail at $4,000 each in the case of Joseph and Alex and $2,000 each in the case of Martin and Aaron, pending the appeal.

Mother, Grieving for Son, Dies; Another Unable to Take Food

Mrs. Penfold Succumbs to Broken Heart When Youth Vanishes From Home.

Grieving for her eldest son, 23, who left home some months ago rather than be a burden to them he could not get work, Mrs. Loretta Penfold, 48, died today in her home, 1444 stuart st., of a broken heart, her physician said.

In the meantime, another mother, grieving for her missing son, viewed she would fast until he returns. She is Mrs. Lillian Olsen, 48, of 2324a Sumpter st. Her son, David, left home Oct. 15.

The father of the Penfold boy today appealed to the police to locate his son, Frederick, Jr., in time for his mother's funeral Monday morning at 10 o'clock, in St. James Pro-Cathedral on Jay st., where she was married. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Freddy, Jr., was a good son, the elder Penfold told the police. He worked hard and went to evening high school, graduating with honors. For six years he was employed as a runner on Wall Street firm but lost his job June 22 last. The boy wanted work every day and became downcast and discouraged, his father told the police. On Sept. 11, he went in search of employment and never returned.

A week ago, Mrs. Penfold came to the conclusion that worrying Freddy's executor. She told the family she had dreamed about Freddy the night before, that he was cold and trembling. Mrs. Penfold collapsed as the table and lapsed into a coma, recovering only once, two days ago, to murmur:

"Where is my Freddy?"

There are three other children, Veronica, 16; Gerard, 13, and James 7.

Mrs. Olsen reported her son's disappearance to the police Oct. 17. His absence has been preying on

CITY EMPLOYES' FURLOUGHS CUT FOR NOVEMBER

Reduction Will Allow 36 Per Cent. to Teachers and 40 to Other Workers.

CREDIT GIVEN M'GOLDRICK

Lyons Congratulates Him for Not Acting Before Election as Political Move.

The Board of Estimate today voted to give all city employes who have had their salaries reduced during the year, through a payless furlough, a reduction of that furlough for the month of November.

This reduction will allow a 36 per cent. refund to school teachers, and other educational employes and a 40 per cent. refund to all other city employes.

Borough President Lyons, of the Bronx, Democrat, congratulated Comptroller McGoldrick for refusing to vote this refund prior to Election Day, not making a political issue.

"It might have swung the election by bringing over 140,000 city employes," Lyons said.

Aldermanic President Deutsch characterized the refund, "a Christmas present well in advance."

The legislative act permitting the furlough specified that $11,000,000 was to be raised through its collection. The total deduction by reason of the paylcss furlough up to Oct. 31 aggregated $9,522,482 and only $1,477,518 would be necessary to be deducted from the November checks to complete the $11,000,000.

Since the entire $11,000,000 will have been collected by the end of this month, the salary checks for December will be for the full amount of the salary as provided in the budget without any furloughs whatever.

The resolution itself provides that the furlough deductions for the month of November for the educational staff shall be 64 per cent. of the amount hereafter deducted and that from all other employes it shall be 48 per cent. of the furlough from Nov. 16 to Dec. 31, and the full amount of the deduction from Nov. 1 to Nov. 15.

Borough President Lavy, of Manhattan, raised the issue that he had asked that the furlough be abandoned last summer as unnecessary. "Levy knows better," the Mayor said. "He is only having a little political run."

Levy, however, pressed the issue and it was suggested that when Comptroller-elect Taylor assumes office on Jan. 1, the Democratic bloc may introduce some other plan providing for the return of furlough deductions.

DR. RICE SUSPENDS CITY FOOD PROBER

Manhattan Prosecutor Investigates Activities of Agent.

Arthur Simon, a confidential food investigator, who lives at 420 50th st., has been temporarily suspended, Health Commissioner Rice announced today. Dr. Rice said that Simon's activities were being investigated by the Manhattan District Attorney.

"I cannot discuss the case," said Assistant District Attorney Wallace, who has been investigating the matter.

Dr. Rice, who appointed Simon Feb. 1, issued the brief statement. It read:

"Last evening I questioned Mr. Simon and, after discussing the matter with the Mayor, I temporarily suspended him until the matter could be carefully investigated and all the facts brought to my attention."

NEXT LEADER?

JOHN WIRTH

WIRTH SLATED AS REPUBLICAN LEADER IN 5TH

Unopposed as Candidate as Crews Calls Meeting to Replace Flynn.

Kings County Republican Leader John R. Crews today issued an official party call for a meeting of the Republican district committee of the Fifth A. D. for the election of a new leader to succeed Assistant Attorney General Joseph C. H. Flynn, next Tuesday evening. The meeting will be held at the Kings County Republican Club, 202 Patchen ave.

Former Minority Leader John Wirth, of the Board of Aldermen, one of the veteran Republicans of the Stuyvesant district, is slated to receive the place. Mr. Crews himself, who is leader of the neighboring Sixth A. D., will preside at the election in his capacity as chairman of the Kings County Republican Committee.

Mr. Flynn resigned about a week ago as the Republican executive member of the Fifth A. D., but agreed to retain his post until after the election. He became leader of the district in 1931, succeeding Justice Charles C. Lockwood who had resigned to assume his place on the Supreme Court bench.

Report Wirth Has Support

The understanding is that a majority of the 162 members of the district committee have pledged their support to Mr. Wirth. No competitor has taken the field against him.

Col. F. H. Stevenson, secretary of the Kings County Republican Committee, will act as an aide to County Leader Crews at the meeting.

The county leader said at his office he had made no plans for a post-election vacation, although he felt much fattigued.

"I've got to earn my living," Mr. Crews said.

In his home district plans were being arranged for proceedings to contest the accuracy of figures showing that Assemblyman Samson Hirsch, Republican-Fusion candidate for re-election, had lost to his Democratic opponent, Julius Hedland, by a small plurality.

Friends of Assemblyman Hirsch said that errors revealed thus far showed a difference of only eight votes in the individual totals for the two candidates. Inasmuch as a recount defeated after the election by about 50 votes.

If the reported election of Hedland is upset it will mean a break in the clean sweep recorded by the Democrats in the Brooklyn election.

GANGSTER'S LIFE SPARED

Toledo, O., Nov. 9.—Thomas (Yvonne) Lawson, last of Northwestern Ohio's big-time gang leaders, today was found guilty of first degree murder for his part in an underworld conspiracy to slay four members of his gang. The jury recommended mercy, thus saving Lawson from execution.

BUS FIRM'S LAWYERS GOT $70,000 IN JUDGMENT SUIT THROUGH WOMAN, IS CHARGE

Involved Finances of Company Bring Probe; Woman Aided in Suit.

CITY PLANS GARNISHEES

Jacoby, Schorenstein, Pearlman Call Charges "Bunk and Tommyrot."

While the city worked deeper into the groundwork of the East New York bus franchise deal in which three borough officials are accused of fund juggling to evade payment of a $63,000 city tax, it was revealed that one Minnie Sternin obtained a $70,700 judgment against the bus firm on last Sept. 4, as assignee of a claim of Celler & Kraushaar, the company's own counsel.

This was revealed at City Hall when further points in the report of Accounts Commissioner Blanshard attacked the conduct of Register Aaron L. Jacoby, Commissioner of Records Hyman Schorenstein, and Samuel Pearlman, clerks of the Sixth District Municipal Court and son-in-law of Schorenstein, in operating the bus company.

Asked Receivership

In the plea for the judgment for Minnie Sternin, as assignee, the law firm declared it had received only $2,700 for legal services and disbursed $12,000 of its own funds. The firm also asked for receivership or the company.

The following day, in an action before Supreme Court Justice May, receivership was ordered, with Joseph J. Dickson of 147 Montague st. named receiver.

It was further shown that the group which operated the Eastern Pkwy., Brownsville & East New York Bus Co., the cited firm, paid only $14,475 to the city under the five per cent. franchise agreement with the $63,000 still owing.

Three Deny Charges

While the officials named were terming the entire report "outrageous" and a frame-work of "political tommyrot and lies," the city was reported ready to seek creditor's judgment and garnishee the salaries of the three men involved.

But a check on the financial status of the officials in the Department of Finance showed that the city must wait many years before it can take this place in the line of those collecting on judgments against the three.

It was reported that garnishees to satisfy judgments on Jacoby's city salary listed Theodore F. Heider, with a $9,642 claim as of Feb. 15, 1932, being paid at rate of $61 a month and $3,844 paid; Morris Plan judgment claim of $1,326, as of April 26, 1932; judgment in Bank of United States claim, $1,723, and another Morris Plan judgment claim of $781, still to be satisfied.

Schorenstein also has the following judgments pending against him: Benjamin Shapiro, $7,625, as of Aug. 26, 1933, being paid at $46.26 per month; Bank of United States, $90,045, and a Morris Plan claim of $781.

This means that the city may climb aboard the judgment wagon, but cannot collect until previous claims have been paid.

The city may obtain another form of lien should further property or funds be located in the names of those cited. It is, of course, hypothetical as the city's winning a judgment.

Corporation Counsel Windels was also asked today whether he contemplated seeking removal of the officials through a report to Governor Lehman.

"I decline to comment on that question," he said.

Kraushaar declared he considered publication of such charges to be "an outrageous and scandalous that we will undoubtedly take appropriate action to hold those responsible to strict accountability."

He said Blanshard had "an axe to grind of some kind," and that while the Commissioner possessed wide powers he had transcended them to provide "political pretender to publicity seekers and dis-

"Apple Annie," Lady for a Day Like Film Prototype, Dies of Gas

Woman Who Tasted Riches and Fame for 24 Hours Destined for Pauper's Grave With Husband.

The body of "Apple Annie," who tasted the dregs of life for many years and its glory for a brief 24 hours, lay on a slab in the morgue today, destined for a pauper's grave.

The inspiration for the motion picture, "Lady for a Day," "Apple Annie," whose real name was Helen McCarthy, was asphyxiated with her husband, Thomas, a few days ago when a wind blew out the light in their shabby room.

Although she was known as "Apple Annie" to the thousands who passed her tiny stand in Shubert's alley, almost no one knew her true identity and it was only today that a detective discovered the story behind the morgue listing, "Thomas and Helen McCarthy."

Before she died, Apple Annie had one blazing day to look back upon in the drab years of hawking candy and fruit. That was when Hollywood made "Lady For a Day" and as a publicity stunt elevated her from rags to riches like her prototype in the film.

For 24 hours, "Apple Annie" rode in a limousine, went to exclusive shops for clothes, revelled in beauty shops, tasted caviar and delicacies she had never known and slept in a silk nightgown in a luxurious hotel suite.

On the 25th hour she was forgotten—until today.

Gypsy Prince Says Family Is Starving

Forced to Pitch Tent in Tenement, Ranko Begs Police for Aid.

Prince Alexander Ranko, Chicago-born, but descended from a royal line of Russian gypsies, who has been forced by the depression to pitch his tent in a tenement at 13 Fleet st., today sought help from the police of the Bergen st. station for his starving family.

The Prince told Sergt. George Fahey that his wife, the Princess Paulina, his sons, the Princes Sam, 23 and Frank, 11; his daughter, the Princess Ruby, 17, and his grandson, little Prince John, aged 3, are starving.

The tribe had been on home relief, but, when the relief cut off, the Prince said. He doesn't know where the $16 for the rent is coming from and he is worried about bangles for the Princess.

Sergt. Fahey, who knows his gypsy lore, suggested communication with the king of the tribe. Sadly, Prince Alexander told the sergeant that the king, too, is in desperate straits.

Sergt. Fahey mentioned King Kasnoff of another tribe, who has a tent at Linden blvd. and Powell st. for weary gypsies.

Prince Alexander thanked the sergeant for the good news, said he was acquainted with King Kasnoff and had not known where he was wandering these days. The Prince said he would move in at once with the generous king.

PIUS DISMISSED AS DEPUTY SHERIFF

Infraction of Rules Blamed—O'Donnell Promoted.

Dismissal of Edward Pius as a deputy sheriff by Sheriff Frank J. Quayle, Jr., came to light today when the Sheriff confirmed reports he had directed Pius to turn in his badge. Pius had ordered his name stricken off the payroll. Pius has been identified with the Democratic organization in the First A. D., where Quayle is an executive member.

The place formerly held by Pius was filled yesterday when Assistant Deputy Sheriff Manus O'Donnell was promoted to the rank of deputy at a salary of $2,515. O'Donnell's place went to William J. Atkinson, 431 Albee sq. Atkinson's salary will be $1,860.

The Sheriff said he was obliged to dismiss Pius for an infraction of the office rules.

Woman Trying 22d Floor Leap From Hotel Saved by Police

Cop Pulls Her to Safety While Another Distracts Her Attention—Net Stretched Below.

While one patrolman kept her attention distracted from her announced intention of jumping from the 22d floor of the Hotel St. George, a second patrolman, lowered from the floor above, pulled a woman to safety today. A fire net had been spread out in the courtyard below.

The woman was Miss H. L. Fordham, 40.

Miss Fordham called headquarters at 2 o'clock and announced her suicide attempt. Her call was relayed to the Poplar St. Station, where Patrolman Andrew Clancy jumped into an emergency car and raced for the hotel.

Accompanied by a hotel manager, Clancy tore up to the 22d floor, but, unable to get into the woman's room, entered another room across a small court from room 2204, in which Miss Fordham was registered.

Leaning out the window, Clancy yelled at the woman to return to her room, but she persisted she would jump.

The manager called headquarters for more policemen, while Clancy continued his arguments.

Reserves, arriving in record time, were unable to break down the barricaded metal door. Patrolman Andrew Murphy then was lowered from the window above in an effort to drag the woman back to safety.

While his mates were lowering him by a life belt, the hotel manager put in a call for a fire department truck in an effort to reach her from the court below.

In the meantime Patrolman Clancy continued to talk to the woman in the hope he could deter her from leaping long enough for others to reach her.

At the hotel it was said Miss Fordham had registered there last night and gave as her address 97 Columbia Heights, the address of the Hotel Margaret.

Miss Fordham, according to authorities at the Hotel Margaret, left there last night. She had registered the hotel in September. It was said a sister, living at the Hotel Pierrepont, had taken her out of the Margaret.
